Dedication

Because of his unfailing interest in the students and the school . . . because he is thoughtful and always willing to help . . . because he is friendly and sincere . . . the Class of 1962 is very proud and pleased to dedicate this edition of the QUAKER to one of the most popular personalities on campus . . .

Mr. E. Kidd Lockard

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH, YIELDING PLACE TO NEW.

Tennyson

Guilford College...

"George Fox began it back in England when, in 1668, he advised setting up schools 'for teaching whatsoever things was civil and useful in ye creation.' . . . On Eleventh Month, tenth, 1830, Nathan Hunt heard the still small voice bidding him speak and arose in the old meeting house to lay his concern over the state of education before Friends. No sooner than he had seated himself there arose another moved by the same concern. This was Jeremiah Hubbard, who had been teaching in the little school house at New Garden, and he knew what he was talking of. He proposed the founding of a yearly meeting school, and that school became Guilford College, for the yearly meeting caught the vision, and faith believing, began to plan a school which has lasted a century and a quarter.

In 1837 Founders Hall, built of brick made on the place, of timber cut from its hills, and of pine hauled from thirty to fifty miles by ox team, was finished. School opened on Eighth Month, first.

Archdale and King Hall were added, and in 1889 New Garden Boarding School became Guilford College.

...the future...

A men's dormitory to house 256 students and a women's dormitory to house 162 students will open their doors in September, 1962, enabling the college to increase its total enrollment to 850 students and its resident student body to 750. Plans are also being made for additions to the library, the dining hall, and the power plant. Now more students will be offered the opportunity for higher education and more students will be brought into the Christian fellowship of the college as campus residents.

Dana Scholars

Mr. Charles A. Dana

Having demonstrated marked quality of character and evidence of leadership, and having acquired a minimum academic quality average of 2.00, twenty students were chosen to receive the coveted Dana Scholarships.

Dana Scholars receive grants in the amount of full tuition for the academic year. All scholars meet regularly with the Dana Committee during the year to explore the philosophy of liberal education at Guilford College, so that they may become leaders in their classes and, by their positions, direct their classmates toward more successful college careers.

Gov't. Merger Proposed New Constitution Awaits Approval

After holding a series of open meetings and going through many thoughts to their work, the student committee on government at Guilford College has presented its final proposal for a new and more effective student government. This plan, stressing unity and co-operation, is being given to the student body for their approval. A Cappella Choir

The Guilford College A Cappella Choir, recognized as one of the leading choral organizations in the southern region, is now in its thirty-fourth season. Varied as the rich music in the diversified repertoire, so is the membership of this group, representing a dozen religious denominations with singers from a number of states and foreign countries. Although sponsored by the Department of Music, membership is open to all students of the college.

Although many concerts are given locally and within the state, the choir makes an extended tour each year during the spring vacation period. Since its organization in 1928, the choral group has traveled over most of the states east of the Mississippi.

Guilford College's football team suffered three straight heart-breaking defeats in early season by a combined margin of eight points, enough to shatter any club's fondest dreams of a bright future--and apparently it did for the Quakers this year.

Elon dealt the Quakers a staggering blow in its curtain raising, scoring twice in the last four minutes to wipe out an 8-0 Guilford lead and win by the slim margin of 12-8.

Then came East Carolina the following week, and the Pirates pulled out a 17-15 victory in the fading moments, a costly Quaker error opening the victory doors.

The third and last of these crucial blows came immediately after the loss to E.C.C. at the hands of underdog Randolph-Macon by the odd score of 6-4.

According to Coach Herb Appenzeller and a number more Quaker followers these three close decisions definitely took their toll. "There's just no telling what we might have done had we won even two of our first three," Appenzeller stated. The Quakes finished this year with nine losses and not a taste of victory.

Appenzeller tabbed his club's performances against Elon, East Carolina, and Catawba.

Despite a winless season, however, there were some bright moments in Quakerville this year. When award time rolled around after the gear had been hung up for another year, sophomore Buddy Dixon walked off with the "Most Valuable Player" award.

Three other boys shared in the prize-taking honors. Tom Waters, a senior from Goldsboro who missed the last three games of the campaign due to injuries, was voted the best tackler on the team for the second straight year. Senior Co-captain Frank Simpson, a home grown product, swept the outstanding blocking award, and Eddie Williams was tabbed the best hustler of the squad.

Dixon, a speedster from Murfreesboro, was used at halfback, end, and ran back punts and kickoffs. "We tried to utilize his talents to the fullest extent," his coach remarked.

Senior guard Walter Wiggins, another Goldsboro boy, gained honorable mention on the Little All-American selection. "Quite an honor, considering our record," Appenzeller pointed out.

Sophomore Larry Addleton turned in brilliant performances at quarterback all year long. A steady performer, Addleton led the team in scoring with five touchdowns and 30 points. He'll be back for a couple more years and Appenzeller isn't crying about that.

To mention a few more who played starring roles were center Jack Holley, guards David Wells and Sherrill Doby, tackle Charlie Abernethy, end Tommy Barnes, and halfbacks Tom Bowers, Ray Durham, Ken Hedrick, and Bobby O'Daniel.

Wells, who hails from Teachey's, probably saw more action than any other man on the squad. He could be termed the 60-minute man. "He was very definitely one of our better linemen," Appenzeller stressed.

Holley gained honorable mention All-Conference in spite of his being hampered by injuries throughout the season.

Commenting on the kicking game, the Quaker boss spoke in a delightful tone. The reason -- Bill Joye.

Joye, a freshman flash from Garner, placed second in the league in punting in his rookie season and boomed several punts over 60 yards. His longest boot came against Lenoir-Rhyne, a towering 69 yarder.

Another highly touted first year man who saw plenty of action was Gary York. "York turned out to be one of our finest freshman performers," said Appenzeller. "He did a real good job in there at guard."

Little was said about the coming campaign, but Appenzeller and his staff are eyeing a better season, despite heavy losses from this year's club. There are several promising youngsters who will be counted on along with the few veterans to provide new sinues of football strength for Guilford.

Basketball

Seven wins and nineteen losses isn't an impressive record for any basketball team, but that mark doesn't paint a true picture of Guilford College's cagers this past season.

After suffering through a miserable 1-19 season a year ago, Coach Clyde Parrish proved himself as a builder in his second campaign here.

Even though the record isn't impressive, it shows vast improvement over the teams in the past. The 7-19 slate posted this year is the best mark a Quaker club has enjoyed in five seasons. In fact, it is more wins than the teams over the past five years have chalked up combined.

The major drawback on the '61-'62 quint, according to Parrish, was the lack of board strength. Even though the Quakes owned one of the top rebounders in the Carolinas Conference in the person of Dan Kuzma, they still did not possess the overall height to cope with gigantic league powers like Western Carolina, Lenoir-Rhyne, etc.

As far as shooting accuracy goes, the Quakes could battle on even terms with most any club. It was that second, third, and fourth shot the opponents got that spelled Quaker doom, on most occasions.

And speaking of shooting, Parrish had all guns firing full blast in Charleston, S. C., as Guilford demolished the College of Charleston 107-69 to set a school mark for most points scored in a single game. The 107 tallies erased the old record set in '53 when the Quakes filled the baskets with 103 points against Atlantic Christian.

It was only the third game of the season that Guilford played the role of a giant killer. Highly rated Appalachian rode into town expecting an easy night, but that was not the case. The Mountaineers left weeping as the smaller Quakers dished out a 64-63 upset in the waning moments--the upset of the year at that time.

Another thriller occurred at Atlantic Christian about mid-season when Dan Kuzma grabbed his own rebound after missing a charity toss and stuffed in the winning bucket with 20 seconds showing on the clock for a 62-60 triumph.

BURWELL TOPS SCORERS . . . ENDS BRILLIANT CAREER . . .

If there ever was a place for the little man in college basketball Jon Burwell filled it to capacity. The 5-foot, 10 inch, 175 pound senior who made high school All America before coming here, stepped into the starting lineup his freshman year and has been there ever since.

Burwell proved himself a full fledged star right off the bat and averaged around the 12 point mark for three straight seasons. This year, he reached his career high for the most points scored in a single season and also topped the 1000 point career total.

The classy backcourtman slammed in 360 points for a 14.4 scoring average in leading the club in point-making for the first time. Utilizing his deadly jump shot to the fullest, he rang up 1060 points in his four years here. He stepped down from the college ranks as one of Guilford's all time greats.

Hot shooting Dan Kuzma was hot on Burwell's trail for the scoring crown with 355 points. Kuzma, 6'3", 190 pounder, held the hottest shooting hand of all Quakes with one of the conference's top marks percentage-wise. He connected on 57.7 per cent of his shots from the floor.

A terror under the boards, for the second consecutive season he led the team in rebounding with 13.8 recoveries per contest and finished among the top rebounders in the league.

Sophomore Wayne Wyckoff was the only other starter hitting in double figures. He dumped in 261 points for a 12.4 average and pulled down 7.9 rebounds a game.

Mike Allred, who got off to a slow start, but finished in a flurry, just missed double figures with a 9.6 average. Allred, sophomore from Mt. Airy, flipped in the most points in a single game this season, hitting 28 against Campbell in his finest hour in college basketball.

Ken Ward, 6'6" center, threw in nine points per contest in the 17 games in which he played. He did not see action in the final nine games.

Other boys who saw plenty of action throughout the season were Elwood Parker, Fred Rabb, Bill Curran, Lloyd Turlington, Paul Updegraff, Montie Milner, co-captain Tom Whitely, Roy Williams, and Jerry Hodge.

Parker stepped in and filled a starting position in the season's final stages.

FRESHMEN STANDOUTS

A couple of freshmen who should make the headlines more than once before finishing are Loyd Turlington and Fred Raab. Both saw a great deal of action this year and both will be counted on heavily in the Quaker's future plans.

Team statistics show that Guilford was outscored by the opposition 74.8 per contest to 66.4. It was, however, the lowest opponents scoring average in a number of years as two years ago the opposition enjoyed ringing up over 93 points a game against the Quakers.

Parrish's crew connected on 43 per cent of its shots from the floor and 71.4 per cent from the foul line.

Parrish has done a creditable job in his two seasons here, considering the circumstances, and within the next few years could have Guilford among the top challengers in the race for the conference crown.

Baseball

After two early season victories—one in a practice game against Wake-Forest and one against the touring Hiram College team—the outlook for the 1962 baseballers is rather bright, but there is a cloud or two on the horizon. One pre-season weakness is the lack of pitching depth. Aside from junior Mickey Herrin, who piled up a 7-0 record last year, the hurling strength is yet to be proved.

The Quakers appear fairly strong at the other positions. Returning letterman are Mickey Faulk at 1st, Lee Johnson at 2nd, Conrad Parker at 3rd, Elwood Parker at short, and Bob Hodges in rightfield. Centerfield is well covered by Carl Hampton, a transfer from P. J. C., and freshman Kendell Buckner seems to have taken over the left field slot. Behind the plate is Barry Cook, playing his second year for Guilford after a stint in the Navy. Cook is slated for mound duty, too.

The team appears to be strong defensively, and with men like Faulk, Cook, E. Parker, Johnson, Hodges, Buckner, and Hampton, all strong hitters potentially, the offense doesn't look weak. This year's is a tough schedule, but a Spring Vacation tour through South Carolina is expected to help the team considerably.

The 1962 golf team begins its season with lettermen returning to play positions 1, 2, and 3. At the number 4 spot, behind McDanel, Reece, and Fletcher, is Tim McCoy, a freshman from Virginia Beach. With this strong and experienced nucleus and newcomer McCoy, backed up by John Wiley and Charlie Abernethy, the outlook appears bright for the Quakers on the links. They hope to improve on last year's good season, during which they piled up a 9-4-1 record. Home matches are played on the beautiful Starmount Course, ex-home of the GGO.

Brooks Haworth

Things look good for the Quakers on the tennis courts this year with four lettermen returning and Brooks Haworth in school again. The first three positions should be manned by Haworth, Dick Derr, the conference Class II champion, and David Edgerton. Also back is Montie Milner, and with the added help of Andy Brown and Steen Spove, these fellows should keep up Guilford's tradition of strong tennis teams.

Led by Frank Bailey and Howard Braxton the 1962 cindermen will probably win a few and lose a few. Gone is the irreplaceable Harold James, but there are several freshmen to pick up points. Looking good in early season have been Fred Rabb, Joel Ostroff, Bob Wilson, and Walt Gramada. Bailey, of course, is the super-star, participating in the broad jump, the high jump, the pole vault, and the javelin, and sometimes some running events. It's good to have tract meets on campus again; there has been one good one already, and there should be more.

Epitaph...

On a warm September day in 1958 approximately 150 young men and women entered the gates of Guilford College and became the Class of 1962. There were tall and short people, skinny and fat people, just-right people; some were scared, some self-conscious and shy, some self-confident and friendly, but all with mixed emotions, and all, together, making up the famous class of a century and a quarter.

How often during that freshman week did we hear that we were special, that we were hand-picked, that ours was the class that would be remembered? And from hearing things like this didn't we become a little more closely-knit than most classes? Our freshman float won the prize at Homecoming, for the first time the freshman class sponsored a candidate for Homecoming Queen, and she, along with another freshman girl, made the Court, three of our girls became cheerleaders, many of our men played varsity sports, we did this and that, and we were pretty proud of ourselves.

Now it's 1962, and the century and a quarter class will soon be graduated. Soon we will be forgotten, and Guilford College will be talking about the famous class of a century and a half—perhaps some of our children will be in it. When we look at the past four years, what do we see?

We see education, certainly, though few of us have bothered to partake of more than a fraction of what has been offered us. When we remember Guilford, I think that education won't be what comes to mind. We see Homecoming and May Day week-ends, the burning of a coach in effigy, days at the lake, the change from family-style to cafeteria-style dinners, a 1959 victory in football over arch-rival Elon, serenades to the girls' dorms, trips to the Azalea Festival, Ham's, and, indubitably, the pantry-raid, and on and on.

It has been fun, and I think that above all, we will remember Guilford with love. I hope that in some way the 1962 Quaker will help us to remember.
